Art Unit: 3736

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 16-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. First, claims 16 and 40 recite detecting one of position or orientation of the limb. However, applicant only discloses measuring the angular orientation of the arm, which is an indication of position. Essentially, applicant uses these terms interchangeably. Hence, there is no support for distinguishing between the two. Second, there is no disclosure for the timing unit initiating the blood pressure measurement after a passage of a predetermined amount of time. Since both of these features were added via amendment, they constitute new matter.
